

He is a Dj, videographer and a photographer. Well experienced in all three sectors.

"I have a good eye that is needed in photography and a sharp ear for sound," says Dj "Freshpuff" who is a photographer with over 15 years of experience and has shared the stage with the likes of South African sensations Dj Black Coffee and Dj Fresh.

"Weddings are my thing. I am passionate about them," he says while making it clear that the core of weddings should be the couple and guests and not just what the Dj had in mind. Experience, formal training, books and workshops are some of the measures he says he has adopted to make sure he knows his stuff.

When asked about where "Freshpuff" comes from, he laughs. "It is a mixture of Fresh and Puff. To be more precise, when I started playing music, they called me Fresh and I was also a huge fan off Puff Daddy. In the end, I somehow ended up with Freshpuff ," he giggles.

Dj "Freshpuff" was referred to Wedding Anthem by a South African businessman by trade and leisure photographer. It was just beautiful to see how two men of different ethnic groups and different races were brought together by the love of photography. If you are involved in a
